TIRON INTERIOR ARCHITECTURE LIMITED

reorient financial markets ltd

HONG KONG, CHINA 2006

Tiron considered every factor when designing this approximately 600 m² office of a Chinese investment company. The prime task of the designer was delivering "sincerity and beauty". The aim was to create an outstanding office which gives a neat, cool, modern corporate impression. A color scheme of black and white was used for the overall tone in most areas to create a classic feel. At the entrance of the office, a full height "Stock Exchange" feature wall conveys the nature of the company. Several pieces of black glass panels are strategically curved on the wall to depict the scenic Hong Kong harbor view thereby directing the reception and conference areas at the same time.

In most rooms, both solid wall and glass partitions are employed to make it stylish and maximize spacefulness. Technology was integrated with design to enable future expansion. Desks were custom made so that computers do not protrude. Left but not least, a party with a vinyl and club bar top provides a cheerful atmosphere during meet. A few sleek chairs are placed in front of the bar top for both use and decoration. So far, Tiron and employees like this first piece of work.
